STATESMEN, AMBASSADORS AND THEIR FAMILIES ARE ALL CYCLING.

Says a Washington correspondent: The national capital is being besieged by the cyclist, and its broad, smooth asphalt streets are each day the scene of an increasing crowd of wheelers. The large number of people who are riding is shown by the attendance at the fashionable school here. It has been crowded for about six months, and from 9 in the morning when the classes start in, until the close at 4, the track is filled with people learning, while many of the rich customers engage the teacher, who is a colored man to give them private lessons the evening. Just back of the White House is what is known as the White Lot, and this is a rendezvous for all the fair cyclists in the city. The roads to the suburban resorts are popular, too, and parties go out every evening to some pretty country place.

In fact, carriage riding, once so fashionable in the social set at the capital, seems now to be entirely superseded by wheeling, and it is likely that the belles and young attaches of the foreign legations will in future attend the meets of the wheelmen, instead of those of the select limiting club which has so long been an attraction to the lovers of outdoor sports of the wealthy set here. Some of the ladies have adopted the short skirt and many are even skimming around the streets in bloomers. But, as a rule, the simple, plain skirt is the most popular.

The first of the fashionable ladies to ride a wheel was the daughter of the Russian Ambassador, the Princess Cantacuzene. She is a tall blonde with heavy and muscular figure. She used to devote most of her days to the art school, but more than a year ago she took to wheeling and soon became one of the expert cyclists in the city. Its only she gave to one of her teachers a beautiful wheel as a token of regard before she and the Prince, her father, left for a trip to Europe.

Mrs. Trinton Bole, who will be remembered as Miss Mattie Blaine, a daughter of the late James G. Blaine, is a devoted cyclist and wears a most attractive and becoming costume of tan. Her skirt is short and her dainty gait is over the handle. The whole of her dress is in the same useful shade.

The new Minister from Austria, Herr von Sotomayor, and his wife, began to take lessons almost on arriving here, and are now enthusiastic riders. One of the teachers went to the legation and initiated them into the mysteries of the wheel at their first lesson.

The wife of Gen. Henderson is an expert rider, and yet she is by no means a young woman. There are plenty of elderly ladies who ride, however. One of them is at least sixty years old. She is one of the richest women in town.

The British Ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, and his fair daughters, are all expert riders, and it is a common sight to see him wheeling along accompanied by the two girls, who are as fond of the exercise as their father.

Alice Belmont, the daughter of one of Grant's cabinet officers, is a great wheelwoman, and as she is also a remarkably pretty girl, it is a pleasant sight to see her riding.

The Misses Lett, daughters of the Chicago millionaire, who makes his home in Washington, are riders, and when a few weeks ago Miss Mary Lett was married to the Hon. Geo. Curzon, of England, the noble English visitor went to the bicycle school and was taught how to ride.

Miss Cameron, daughter of the Senator from Pennsylvania, is a rider, but during the first part of the winter she fell from a wheel and was so severely injured that she was kept in the house for about a month.

Phil Sheridan, the fourteen-year-old son of the famous warrior, is a great wheelman and is seen daily spinning about the fashionable avenues. Miss Field, stepdaughter of the Virginia author, Thomas Nelson Page, is a devotee of the wheel.

Senator Brier, of Ohio, has two pretty daughters, both of whom are fond of wheeling. Their parents will spend the summer in America, but the young ladies expect to make a tour of France on their wheels.

THE CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION.

Since the campaign of education was formally inaugurated at Memphis, less than a month ago, the cause of sound money has made great strides and every day more and more people are putting on their "thinking caps." That is all that the advocates of any reasonable cause can ask, and that is all that the opposition to free coinage of silver asks of the American people that they pause for a little while to consider the argument on both sides, and we are the more willing to abide their decision.

We know that there are many loyal and patriotic Democrats in Mississippi who are quite as sincere and disinterested in their advocacy of sixteen to one as Mr. Carlisle or Mr. Catelins in opposition thereto. They have been persecuted first by the advocates of men whom they have been accustomed to follow, and they have been misled by the fallacies and misrepresentations of such books as "Coin's Financial School." They have heard and they have read but one side and the peculiar business of that side has been, not to debate the question, but always to engage in special pleading whenever an adversary has been found.

When it is conclusively shown to this class of voters that the free coinage of silver at a 16 to 1, by this country alone, would mean silver monometallism and that silver monometallism would mean, 1st, Panic, disaster and ruin to the debtor.

The contraction of our currency by more than one-half of its primary money.

3d. The diminution of the purchasing power of a dollar fifty per cent.

4th. Confusion and disruption in every business consequent upon a violent revolution in our monetary system.

5th. A taking away from every kind of wage earner a large portion of his earnings by reducing his dollars to a parity with those of Mexico.

6th. Prompt and immediate foreclosure of every mortgage that is due and the refusal of the lender in any case to grant an extension upon any debt.

It is and has been the purpose of the campaign of education to show that these are some of the consequences that would wait upon the adoption of free coinage of silver by this country, independent of the action of those with whom we trade, and when these things are conclusively proved we have an every one.

Mr. Jones, who has twelve hundred a year, must dress like Mrs. Brown, who has a hundred thousand. Mrs. Brown goes to the sea-side and stops at an expensive hotel, therefore Mrs. Jones makes her husband's life a burden to him until he takes rooms for her on the very same floor of the very same house.

MONEY, BANKING AND CURRENCY.

There is no need for more money in this country. There is every reason why the present gold standard should be maintained. I do not believe in international bimetalism, but even if its adoption would be beneficial to the world, the question is now wholly speculative. Until there is a stronger movement towards that end than now exists, this country has only one of two courses to take—either to retain its present system, which makes the gold dollar the standard, or to adopt the South American system, which makes the silver dollar the standard. Most of the present party also international bimetalism comes from politicians who are trying to deceive the people, and especially the silver men. They are fishing for silver votes. But what the silver men want is the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and they want this country to adopt that system independently of other nations. They want to keep the standard, or to adopt the South American system, which makes the silver dollar the standard. Most of the present party also international bimetalism comes from politicians who are trying to deceive the people, and especially the silver men. They are fishing for silver votes. But what the silver men want is the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and they want this country to adopt that system independently of other nations.

Col. T. M. Palmer, State Senator from this county, just returned, says, "As a whole, the past session of the Florida Legislature has been productive of much good." A new election law modeled after the Australian system was passed. The Inverness Floridian says Capt. Davis of that place has received an order for a car load of lake muck from Chicago. Experiments with our lake muck have so far proved very satisfactory and this promises to be the beginning of a new industry.

The Plant R. R. System estimates that Georgia's fruit crop this season will aggregate $3,000,000. They are shipping peaches now to the North.

From one place in Florida recently 294 crates of tomatoes were shipped in one day, one car of them going to Toronto, Canada.

I notice the races at the Mid-Summer Carnival to be held at Tampa 3, 4 and 5 of July includes racing. Of the ten purses, seven are for running the other three are for trotting, the purses being $150 each, and $75 and $100 in the running races.

A correspondent of one of our Tampa papers "on the county" says, "When I read the thermometer was only 87 degrees in Tampa, I wished I was back there."

We still have Indians in Florida. The "green corn dance" was celebrated the 16th inst. at the Seminole camps. Corn ready for eating, and so on I, hence, I end for this time.

A BABY AND A SNAKE.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Martin, who live on Oak Creek, in this county, had a thrilling experience one day last week, the recital of which sends a thrill of horror through every one who hears it.

Mr. Martin has a bright little boy, two years old, who, while undressed for a bath, played his mother to allow him to run and play. He was sent into a carpeted room where the curtains were drawn, and after a few minutes, with an exclamation of surprise and delight, the little fellow came into the room holding in his hands a huge copperhead snake. He had crept out of the hole, and the reptile was writhing and twisting, its head nearly reaching the floor and moving about the feet and lower limbs of the child. Mr. Martin, who had just entered the house, was horrified at first for a moment. He called loudly to the child to drop it. The little fellow obeyed and ran frightened to his father's arms. The reptile immediately pursued the child and endeavored to strike him, coiling and darting its poisonous tongue to a most threatening manner. Mr. Martin dispatched the snake in less than time it takes to tell it, to the great distress of the little boy, who seemed to think he had found a beautiful plaything and was being deprived of it, and was almost inconsolable when it was removed from his sight. Was it instinct or the innocence of the child that saved him, and was it the presence of the father that excited the fury of the reptile? We have heard that snakes will strike young children. Whether this is true or not, it seems difficult to account for the escape of the child upon any other theory.—Clay City Chronicle.

Capt. CHARLES MORRIS, now in Government service at Walden's distillery west up to Lexington, yesterday took to see his wife leave for Europe. Their son was assigned to the Marine Laboratory at Naples, where he has for a year represented our Government in scientific investigations. Capt. Morris 30 years ago was U. S. Consul at Mexico, and now his son occupies a room at light house in his investigations, which his father occupied, as said Gen. Garfield in the reduction in the two Sicilies.—Paris Kentucky Citizen.

LAMBS IN WOODFORD.

Joe A. Cohen last night shipped a car of fat lambs, to Cincinnati, that he bought from the following persons: From Chas. Nickols 15 head; R. S. Gray 20, George Mastin 15, Ben Carter 10, Walter Gray 10, J. V. McConnell 15. They averaged 65 pounds and he paid 4 cents for them. Mr. Cohen has engaged several lots for July delivery at 4 cents.—Versailles Sun.
